

SHORT CURRICULUM VITAE

Professor John Sahl Andersen, MD, GP, PhD. Born May 24, 1953

Education: MD (medicine) 1980. Certified specialist in General Practice (1994) and Public Health (1993). PhD, Faculty of Health Science, University of Copenhagen 1998.

Academic positions: 1992-99 Research assistant, PhD-student, assistant professor, Section of General Practice, University of Copenhagen. 1999-2020 associate professor, same place. 2020- professor, Center of General Practice, University of Copenhagen.

Clinical positions: 1980-91 Several hospital departments and general practices. 1992-2008 General practice, Nørrebro, Copenhagen (single-handed). 2008-2020 General Practice at the University of Copenhagen (group practice).

Other positions: 2002- Consultant in general practice at the Danish Forensic Council. 2005-11 Editor for Danish Medical Journal (Ugeskrift for Læger). 2012-15 Editor for The Medical Handbook for doctors (Lægehaandbogen.dk). 2015-17 Consultant in general practice at The Danish Health Authority (Sundhedsstyrelsen).

Publications: PhD-thesis 1998 (monograph). 51 peer reviewed papers. 43 other papers published in medical journals. Experience with both quantitative and qualitative methods. Editor of three textbook for medical students. Written and revised 22 textbook chapters. Presented 101 scientific orals/posters.

Recent research issues: Chronic diseases and multimorbidity in general practice. Polypharmacy.

Supervision of doctoral students and others: Supervised 8 PhD-students, 31 bachelor- and master dissertations and 28 research trainees, all passed. Currently, supervision of one PhD-students. Teaching at 25 scientific courses.

Research administration: 1994-96, 1999-2005, 2007, 2014-15 Head, Section of General Practice, University of Copenhagen. 2002-13 member of the Council for Psycho-social Research, the Danish Cancer Society, chairing 2006-2013. 2004-15 member of the Research Committee, the Danish Database for General Practice. 2013-18 member of the Advisory Board and Review Committee for Research in the Capital Region. 2014- Chair of the Committee for Research in Primary Care in the Capital Region. 2016- Member of the leadership of the research group for chronic diseases in the Center for General Practice, University of Copenhagen.

Evaluation and development of research: Member of 14 evaluation committees concerning PhD-theses, chairing four. Evaluation of 36 applicants for academic positions. Peer reviewer at 9 international journals including BMJ. 2014 and 2019 peer reviewer of applications to the Norwegian Research Council.

Teaching experience: Since 1991 taught medical and public health students in several subjects: clinical general practice, the health care system, communication, social medicine and information technology. At the postgraduate level taught PhD students, junior doctors, general practitioners and foreign health care professionals in research methods, the Danish health care system and information technology. 2000-01 Leader of Clinical course in general practice, MD medicine, 12. term. 2018-2023 Leader of the course "Early Patient Contact", BA medicine, 1. term.

Honors: 2003 Friederich's prize (DDK 100.000) due to a great contribution to research in general practice. 2016 and 2019 remuneration for a special effort at Dep. of Public Health, University of Copenhagen (DDK 15.000 and 12.000).